Letter from the Executive Director

Another year has almost passed, full of many positive experiences – a year involving new additions to the Foundation’s event calendar, new connections and friendships, new donors, and more funds raised to support the overall mission of the Foundation.

The Floyd Memorial Foundation is fortunate to have so many supporters who champion the work we do and the impact we have on the health and well-being of our community. The commonly used phrase, “It takes a village,” resonates with me frequently, at every planning meeting, board meeting, special event, and fundraising initiative. We could not have the impact that we have alone - we do it because of you, your commitment, and your support. Thank you for all that you do to improve the health of the Southern Indiana community.

As we close out 2018 and embark on the Chapel Capital Campaign to raise funds to construct a sanctuary off the main lobby at Baptist Health Floyd for patients, visitors and employees, I look forward to another successful year of growing partnerships, realizing new relationships, and increasing the support we provide to those in need, spiritually, emotionally and physically. Thank you for being a part of our village.

Cheers and best wishes to you and your family in the New Year!

Foundation Partners with Family & Children's Place

In 2016, the Floyd Memorial Foundation received a grant request from Family & Children's Place regarding grant funding for therapy services at New Albany Floyd County elementary and middle schools. Some of these schools had recently experienced an increase in disruptive and aggressive behavior among students. They concluded that hiring a therapist dedicated to work with these students would best meet their needs and concerns, allowing them to resolve and manage their feelings in a healthy way, and remain in the classroom to learn and develop sustainable peer relationships. The Foundation granted funds for a part-time therapist to work with students at Green Valley Elementary School, Greenville Elementary School and Hazelwood Middle School from January through June 2017.

Since employing a therapist to help students identified by instructors as needing additional attention due to aggressive, disruptive or rebellious behaviors, over 300 children benefited from this service. Serving three schools in a six-month time period, the therapist provided 310 hours of direct counseling hours and 95 follow-up calls.

Individual free therapy, time and attention provided the therapist and student the opportunity to examine the student’s feelings and behaviors and determine the cause(s) of those behaviors and/or frustrations. John Taylor, Indiana Program Director, Family & Children's Place, commented, “I am simply amazed to see how willing parents are to enable their kids to attend regular counseling if we make it affordable and easily accessible.”

One of the many success stories involves “Tommy”, 11 years old, who had always been a good student but at the start of third grade was having difficulty in class. He was bullied and lashing out at his classmates. He would go into a rage, scream obscenities and, on one challenging day, he threw chairs and other items. He did not know how to appropriately and safely manage his anger and frustration.

Once Tommy was admitted to therapy, the therapist discovered that not only was he having trouble at school but also at home. There had been a long history of domestic violence between his parents. During the summer leading up to third grade, his father was forced to move out of the home after his parents got into a physical fight. The impact of this chaotic and disturbing event resulted in Tommy being treated with Trauma Focused Cognitive Behavioral Therapy to help him better process the circumstances and hurt he had experienced. Following therapy, Tommy was able to convey to his mother his feelings about how her and his father’s actions had affected him. In time, Tommy’s erratic, explosive behavior subsided and he was able to get along better with his peers and stay in class to learn.

From this Foundation grant, 100 percent of the children served remained in school and 90 percent improved their ISTEP scores. It was evident that this student population needed a specially trained therapist to help them work out their emotional issues that were preventing them from performing well in school.

In addition to offering financial assistance for therapy support, the Foundation helped bridge a relationship between Family & Children’s Place (“FCP”) and Baptist Health Floyd to assist FCP with the relocation of the Southern Indiana Child Advocacy Center. The Child Advocacy Center offers significant and primary services to their constituents. The CAC provide forensic interviews, family advocate support and therapists from the FCP staff, police, physicians, Child Protective Services and the Prosecutor’s office. Forensic medical exams, specialized interviews and mental health assessments are conducted in one centralized location and help ensure families receive vital resources to help them heal, get the help they need, and feel secure.

In 2016, the lease for FCP’s Child Advocacy Center at the New Albany location was expiring. They were looking to relocate closer to downtown New Albany to make their services more accessible for families they serve. Following a meeting with FCP and Baptist Health Floyd representatives, it was determined that FCP would lease space from the hospital at 136 E. Cottom Avenue on Tuesdays and Fridays. This turned out to be a suitable location. It’s on the hospital’s campus making it convenient for families and easily accessible for Floyd County prosecutors and police to meet with families. This location has also increased opportunities to partner with other community-based mental health counseling services, alcohol and drug addiction clinics and programs, and fosters overall client health outcomes through medical care from Baptist Health Floyd partners and providers.

Not only is the Cottom Avenue office logistically convenient, the space provided for child advocacy services helps ease the stress and tension of clients as they come through the door. It offers a tranquil, welcoming setting for families, sufficient space to conduct interviews, and Emmie the therapy dog eases children’s fears and anxieties as they enter the door. Once they walk into the main lobby and meet Emmie, most children forget why they are at the CAC and spend their time hugging and petting Emmie. In addition, the calming environment puts family members at ease so they can feel safe and secure.

Family & Children’s Place was founded in 1884 to protect and heal children and families from abuse, neglect, exploitation, and violence. They focus on building safe communities for our children, ensure that families are strong, and help child victims of abuse and neglect to become children again. Since opening the doors at Cottom Avenue in the fall of 2017, 370 individuals have received care and services. Sadly and unfortunately, this number will certainly grow as the valuable services of FCP’s CAC become more well known throughout the community. Thankfully, the community has access to this all-inclusive facility offering critical services for those children who have experienced some form of abuse and resources to enable them to heal. Foundation Supports New Swallow-Study System at Baptist Health Floyd

Every year, the Floyd Memorial Foundation provides grant funding for hospital resources, programs and initiatives that impact patient care. Funding is also allocated for community health-related programs and services. In 2017, the Foundation directed over $250,000 to support hospital resources, community programs and Healthier Community Initiative, a community-based, volunteer program that was founded by the Foundation in the late 1990s to help meet the health needs of the community by offering activities, education and information.

As reported in the April/May 2018 edition of Baptist Health News, the Speech Department at Baptist Health Floyd received a grant from the Foundation to purchase a state-of-the-art TIMS DICOM swallow-study video recording system. This system records, reviews, edits and archives modified barium swallow studies. It offers high resolution video, synched audio, enhances fluoroor room efficiency and is the first of its kind in Southern Indiana. This unit offers a frame rate that can be programmed precisely, which increases patient safety by providing the most accurate clinical diagnosis. The speed of the unit also reduces radiation exposure time and allows patients to complete the test more quickly.

Prior to receiving the new system, the hospital’s speech and language pathologists used an outdated and time-consuming method to record fluoroscopy swallow studies. Completed studies had to be copied to a DVD and then reviewed by a speech language pathologist. When documentation was complete, the pathologist would send a screen shot to the radiologist for his or her review to finish the full procedure. After all steps were followed that took... course over many hours or a day or two, a treatment plan was developed.

With the new system, physicians and Picture Archiving and Communication System staff have immediate access to the full procedure, resulting in more effective consultations with patients and families and improved patient education and outcomes. The versatile system also has the benefit of being able to expand and grow with the hospital's needs.

Meagan Coke, M.S., speech language pathologist, Baptist Health Floyd, commented that "TIMS has allowed PACS and the SLPs immediate access to full procedures, resulting in EMR compliance, more effective consultation with patients and families, and improved outcomes for our patients with swallowing disorders."

The Foundation is proud to support the Speech Therapy department's Swallow-Study System at Baptist Health Floyd to help improve processes and procedures for the medical staff and patient outcomes.

Outstanding BHF Medical Staff Members Recognized at White Coat Dinner

Kicking off the New Year, the Foundation hosted the Third Annual White Coat Dinner at The Grand in downtown New Albany on January 28th. Braidi Huecker, MD and Dr. Chris Day, MD served as co-chairs for the celebratory evening. Local celebrity and former TV host Barry Bernson returned as the Master of Ceremonies who kept guests on the edge of their seats with his comedic entertainment. Jamey Aebersold Jazz Quartet amused guests with his world renown and revered jazz music.

Among the evening's festivities, three Baptist Health Floyd employees were recognized by their peers receiving the most number of nominations in their respective categories, Physician of the Year, Nurse of the Year and Allied Health Professional of the Year. In fall 2016, employees at Baptist Health Floyd were polled and asked to nominate a physician, a nurse and allied health professional, a new award for this annual event, who best represent the hospital's C.A.R.E. Standards: Courtesy and Compassion, Attitude and Appearance, Respect and Responsiveness, and Excellence and Enthusiasm.

The following employees received the most number of nominations from their peers and were recognized at the event:

First declared by President Ronald Reagan in 1998, the month of October is recognized as National Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month. People throughout the world honor and remember babies who were lost too soon due to ectopic pregnancy, miscarriage, stillbirth or infant death. Specifically, October 15 is recognized as Worldwide Pregnancy and Infant Loss Remembrance Day. When recognized worldwide, ceremonies involve a Wave of Light in remembrance of those little children lost too early. Baptist Health Floyd's Forever Loved ceremony provided personalized candles to participating families. As their child’s name was read during the ceremony, the candle was lit in their memory.

Baptist Health Floyd is committed to comforting families who have suffered the loss of a child. If you are interested in purchasing a rose bush in memory of your loved one for the Memorial Garden on the Baptist Health Floyd campus, please contact the Foundation office for more information at (912) 949-5519. In 2015 and 2016, many community members were inundated with recurring media reports regarding the opioid addiction crisis and the toll it was taking on the Southern Indiana and metro Louisville communities. In 2014 and 2015, Austin, IN made national news with its HIV outbreak. A year or two later, cities south of Austin were feeling the impact of increased diagnoses of HIV cases, drug overdoses, increased crime, and overcrowded jails. Baptist Health Floyd was also impacted by a growing patient population – patients presenting with drug overdoses and drug-related cases. Staff were working with limited resources to adequately manage the influx of patients suffering from addiction and needing behavioral health treatment.

During this time, Robbie Valentine, a New Albany resident and former member of the University of Louisville basketball team, contacted the Foundation office asking for assistance to support families dealing with a loved one’s addiction. That phone call led to the creation of Families Linking Families, a grassroots therapy support group that met every few months at S. Ellen Jones Elementary School to share advice, information about addiction treatment and therapy options, and better understand addiction as a disease. Attendees included moms and dads, grandparents, siblings, doctors, researchers, social workers and nurses. And on some days, addicts. They shared stories, resources, and heard from an addiction specialist about treatment options and more in depth details about the disease. Although the meetings were helpful to those attending, the planning committee wanted to have a greater impact, educate the community about the disease and raise money for treatment initiatives.

The committee organized a Stop Addiction Forum at the IUS Ogle Center in May 2017 that featured nationally known and revered addiction medicine specialist Edwin Salsitz, MD, with Mount Sinai Beth Israel Hospital, New York, New York – Division of Chemical Dependency; local researcher Saeed Jortani, MD, Professor of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine, University of Louisville School of Medicine Director, Clinical Chemistry and Toxicology University of Louisville Hospital; local therapist John Walsh; and a very personal and moving life story from a recovering addict. Local agencies and coalitions were present to distribute information to attendees. The following morning, Dr. Salsitz conducted a CME for medical and therapy specialists, providing comprehensive information about addiction, how the medical provider can best manage and treat the disease and responsibly prescribe pain medications for patients. Simultaneously, the Foundation hosted a Stop Addiction Walk in downtown New Albany, welcoming over 250 walkers to raise awareness about positive “steps” being taken to combat addiction and raise funds for treatment initiatives.

Once organizers got involved with planning the walk and the forum and understanding what services were available, they realized there were many resources in the Southern Indiana and metro Louisville communities to help those battling addiction, but if an individual was not familiar with addiction and the agencies supporting this disease, they most likely wouldn't know where to turn for help. An outcome from planning the events was the establishment of the website www.soinaddictionresource.org, thanks to a generous grant from the Rotary Club of New Albany. This website provides a comprehensive listing of agencies, coalitions, therapy groups and websites that provide services to the individual seeking treatment or family member needing therapy support. After reviewing the site, the individual can then determine what is the best solution to get them the help they need.

Special thanks to the sponsors of the Walk and the Forum and to Robbie Valentine for championing this movement towards an addiction-free community.

Fast Freddie’s Five Mile Foot Feast Hits 29 Years – and still Running

Local runners and walkers came out in force for the 29th Annual Fast Freddie’s Five Mile Foot Feast at the Floyd County 4-H Fairgrounds in New Albany on Thanksgiving Day 2017 organized by local running enthusiast Fred Geswein. Since 1988, Fred (a.k.a., Fast Freddie) has hosted this annual running event that raises money for the Joslin Diabetes Center at Baptist Health Floyd. His children were diagnosed with type 1 diabetes at a young age. Thanks to his infectious enthusiasm and desire to impact those battling type 1 diabetes, he once again raised $10,000 in 2017 for the Center. Collectively he has raised thousands of dollars to support diabetes education initiatives at Joslin.

Runners of all ages are welcome to participate in the annual benefit race. Adam Togami, 23, won the men’s division, finishing in 25:17. Recurring winner Sarah Pease, 30, won the women’s division, finishing in 27:12. In addition to participating in the run, participants had a chance to win door prizes including gift certificates and items from Pacers and Racers and Dick’s Sporting Goods.

Joslin diabetes patients and staff members are so grateful to “Fast Freddie,” local businesses, and individuals who participated in and supported the Five Mile Foot Feast!

Scholarships Enable Baptist Health Floyd Employees to Further Education

Baptist Health Floyd employees continuing their medical, nursing or allied health education have the opportunity to apply for a financial scholarship thanks to financial support from the Baptist Health Floyd Auxiliary, the Baptist Health Floyd Medical Staff, and the Floyd Memorial Foundation. Not only are scholarship opportunities available for employees but dependents of employees are eligible to apply for and receive a stipend for their education. Dependents must be in good academic standing and enrolled in an accredited college or university pursuing a medical or health-related degree. For the 2017-2018 school year, 13 employee scholarships were awarded and 36 dependent scholarships were awarded. Visit the Baptist Health Floyd Intranet for more information regarding BHF employee scholarship opportunities.

“Helping Hands” NAFC Art Contest Inspires Young Artists

A variety of “Helping Hands” decorated the hallways of Baptist Health Floyd for the 4th Annual New Albany Floyd County Art Contest. A select few NAFC Elementary school students, ages kindergarten through fourth grade, submitted art creations using crayon, marker or cut out paper on paper displaying what “Helping Hands” means to them.

One art piece was chosen to represent each grade from the nine elementary schools and were put on display at the hospital for six weeks, November 15 through December 31. There were a total of 54 art creations lining the Foundation hallway for passersby to enjoy. Visitors, patients and Baptist Health Floyd employees had the opportunity to vote on their favorite work of art. Both the winner and runner up were students at Green Valley Elementary School. Second grader Aniah Hunter received the most number of votes for her art piece, “Your Hands Have Helped, So Can Mine,” and fourth-grader Sarah Minton was the runner-up. Congratulations to all the students whose art work was chosen to represent their grade!

Many thanks to the New Albany Floyd County Schools Art Contest sponsor Dr. William Garner III and family for supporting our young local artists!

31st Annual Golf Classic

On June 9, the Foundation was excited to host the 30th + 1 Golf Classic – 30 years supporting the Floyd Memorial Hospital and Health Services and the first year raising monies to support Baptist Health Floyd at Covered Bridge Golf Club, Sellersburg. The night before on June 8, sponsors, golfers, their guests and Baptist Health Floyd employees enjoyed an exciting silent auction, great food and classic school rock music by Stephen Day with Lefty and the Lunatics at the Fore Academy Golf Classic Reception. As in years past, both events raised funds for vital medical resources to support the better health and well-being of patients at Baptist Health Floyd. We thank NFP for serving as the Presenting Sponsor for both the reception and the golf scramble. Special thanks also goes to the Golf Classic Masters Sponsors Priority Radiology, Radiology Associates and Eagle Sponsors American Senior Communities, Baptist Health Floyd Administration, Baptist Health Floyd Medical Group, Details Commercial Group, Laughlin Millea Hillman Architecture and WesBanco. We sincerely appreciate these companies and all those who supported this annual event! For more information on the annual Golf Classic, contact the Foundation office or visit www.FloydFoundation.org.

Foundation Executive Director Meredith Lambe and Green Valley Elementary School art teacher Karly Happel congratulate art contest winners.

Memorials and Honorariums

The Floyd Memorial Foundation offers an opportunity for individuals to recognize family and friends who have passed away and those community members who have had a substantial impact on the lives of others. Individuals have the opportunity to make a donation to the Foundation in memory of someone or honor a special person in their life, either by recognizing a birthday, an anniversary, a significant milestone or “just because.” These giving opportunities not only recognize and highlight those who have been meaningful in one’s life but also ensures a lasting memory for special family members and friends. Memorial and Honorary donations help further the mission of the Floyd Memorial Foundation.

Community Partnerships Provide Relief to Many

They say there is power in numbers, whether one is referring to a sports team, an organization, or a class or committee. The same is true for those businesses who partner with the Foundation and the hospital in order to ensure quality resources are in place for our patients.

We thank the WHAS Crusade for Children for their continued support of our pediatric patients. Because of their generosity, the hospital was able to purchase four MamaRoo infant rockers for newborn babies born with Neonatal Abstinence Syndrome who are inconsolable as they go through withdrawal; rocking chairs for the surgery area for parents to use when consoling their child before going into surgery; and a flexible endoscope to use for pediatric surgeries.

Thank you, also, to the Horseshoe Foundation of Floyd County for continuing to support the Cancer Center’s massage therapy program for cancer and terminally-ill patients. This has been a valued program for years and we’re so fortunate to partner with the Horseshoe Foundation to continue to provide this service free-of-charge to our patients.

Heritage Society Members Engage with Local Chef at MESA

In fall of 2017, a few of the Foundation’s Heritage Society members gathered at MESA, a collaborative kitchen-classroom that had recently opened in downtown New Albany featuring demonstrations by Southern Indiana and Louisville aspiring and established chefs. The culinary classroom features a state-of-the-art kitchen and a wrap-around table top bar so guests can sit and watch the cooking demonstrations while enjoying a glass of a favorite wine or local beer and ask questions of the chef throughout the preparation for a three or four-course meal. For the Heritage Society event, Chef Scott Dickenson discussed the recipes selected for the delicious and unique four-course meal, shared his personal cooking techniques and tips and his love for food. It was a festive evening, complete with great food, fellowship and culinary entertainment!
